Deputy Commissioner's Report/Update

- Full Board Consent Agenda Items
 - Board (Re)Appointments
 - Conferral of Degrees
 - State University of New York College of Environmental Science and Forestry: Authorization to Award the Master of Engineering (M.E.) degree

Proposed Amendments to Sections 29.2 and 29.7 of the Rules of the Board of Regents and the Title of Part 63 of the Regulations of the Commissioner of Education and Addition of Sections 63.14 and 63.15 to the Regulations of the Commissioner of Education Relating to the Licensure of Registered Pharmacy Technicians – PPC (A) 1 (Discussion & Emergency Action)

The proposed rule conforms the Rules of the Board of Regents and the Regulations of the Commissioner of Education to Chapter 414 of the Laws of 2019, which, effective April 25, 2021, amends the Education Law by, inter alia, establishing and defining the new profession of registered pharmacy technicians. Registered pharmacy technicians may only practice in facilities licensed in accordance with Article 28 of the Public Health Law, or pharmacies owned and operated by such facilities, under the direct personal supervision of a licensed pharmacist employed in such facilities or pharmacies. The proposed rule, among other things, establishes the licensure requirements for registered pharmacy technicians, which include education, certification, age, moral character, application and fee requirements; adds registered pharmacy technicians to the list of health care professions that are subject to the Regents' unprofessional conduct provisions; establishes limitations on how an unlicensed person may assist a licensed pharmacist in the dispensing of drugs; and establishes supervision ratios.

Seconded by: Regent Christine D. Cea

Following the vote closing the nominations, comments in support were made by Regent Wills, Regents Tilles, Regent Reyes, Regent Cashin, Regent Collins, Regent Mead, Regent Mittler and Interim Commissioner Rosa.

Regent Lester W. Young, Jr's acceptance remarks:

"I would like to thank my colleagues on the Board for your vote of confidence and for your more than generous remarks.

I would also like to recognize and thank Vice Chancellor Andrew Brown for his willingness to accept this additional leadership responsibility by serving as our presiding officer as well as for his friendship.

In 2008, I came to this Board recognizing that I would occupy the very seat originally held by the late Dr. Kenneth B. Clark and later Vice Chancellor Emerita Adelaide L. Sanford, and, as you can imagine, I came prepared to accept the enormous obligation and humbling honor to join my colleagues in service on behalf of all New York State's students and their families and, more specifically, to use this opportunity to address the existing disparities experienced by our most vulnerable student populations, and the majority happen to be Black, Latinx, Asian, Indigenous and poor.

I look forward to working with my colleagues on the Board, Interim Commissioner Rosa, the entire State Education Department team, all New York State educators, the Legislature, the Executive and, in particular, our families as we work to build more equitable and empowering futures for all NYS students.

Colleagues, we are in an incredible moral moment, and in this moment, we must use our leadership opportunity to set into motion the policies and practices that will enable the over 700 New York State School Districts to rethink school and schooling in ways that will transform learning opportunities for all students, teachers and school leaders alike.

However, as we consider our future, we will face many challenges.

The COVID-19 pandemic has upended school systems around the world. Within our own State, the disproportionate impact of COVID-19 has further exposed long-standing educational inequities – particularly impacting our most vulnerable. Moreover, the convergence of this pandemic with the brutal and senseless killing of Black men and women, occurring and observed in real time, has resulted in considerable attention on the reality of racism generally and anti-Black racism more specifically.

Also, the events of last week, in our nation's capital, indicate that there are those who will use this moment to advance inequality, nationalism and division. Additionally, when we consider our public education systems, we see that many of our current structures and practices are grounded in 20th century thinking and knowledge that have resulted in a “one-size fits all” system. At the same time many of our judgments about the potential of our children, youth and families are the result of deep-seated cultural, differentially abled, economic, ethnic, language and racial preconceptions.

The People’s Poet Laureate, Maya Angelou, reminds us to: “Do the best you can, until you know better. Then, when you know better, you must do better.” Colleagues, I would submit that we know better. We now know more about human development and learning; and, at the same time, we know that our society and economy require more demanding skills and behaviors necessary for full participation. Simply stated, we all must do better.

We must move beyond the rhetoric of our commitment to education equity, and use the crisis caused by this pandemic to rethink our systems of education. The question is: Can we channel what we know works to transform what has not worked for children, youth and families in New York State? Our collective response requires an approach that is comprehensive, developmental and coherent. We must also include the perspectives that support and build the self-esteem and identity of the very students who have been historically under supported in our society and in schools.

We don’t need a “new normal,” we need a new possible.

I assure you that I am not naïve; I recognize that the unpredictability of the current landscape has been both intense and stressful, particularly as districts, schools and families have had to implement remote learning overnight, plan whether and how to reopen schools amid changing pandemic conditions, and support students academically and across the full range of developmental pathways. The scope of our challenge will not be easy. Here again, the words of Maya Angelou provide a fitting description: “We delight in the beauty of the butterfly, but rarely admit the changes it has gone through to achieve that beauty.”

Colleagues, the metamorphosis is not easily accomplished nor is it pretty to look at, but the vision of what is possible is absolutely worth every effort.

I look forward to working with you as we build a new possible for all New York State students.

Thank you.”

MOVED, the nomination of Regent Lester W. Young, Jr. for the office of Chancellor.

Motion by: Vice Chancellor T. Andrew Brown and Regent Josephine Victoria Finn
Seconded by: Regent Beverly L. Ouder Kirk
Action: Motion carried unanimously by voice vote.

Daniel Morton-Bentley announced that Regent Lester W. Young, Jr. was unanimously elected Chancellor, the term of office to be January 12, 2021 through March 31, 2022.

Vice Chancellor Brown closed the meeting.
